Eclectic works at Briag gallery

27/11/2024

Have you ever wondered what inspires artists and how their works can be so different? Showcasing their individual styles and mediums, TRUESELF, the forthcoming exhibition at Briagolong Art Gallery, features 9 local artists who present an eclectic selection of new works. The artists are members of The Freestone Press, a printmaking workshop on the outskirts of Briagolong, which provides them with the facilities they need to create their work, a place to share ideas and enjoy the camaraderie of communal space. Even though these artists have worked closely together over several years their work has evolved quite differently, as TRUESELF demonstrates. Motivated by their love of nature and the immediate environment or a more inward examination of the self, their works reinterpret both traditional landscapes, and the female psyche through innovative art techniques. The artists include Judy Dorber, Lesley Duxbury, Alison Elliott, Susan Hibberdine, Gillian Kline, Deborah Milligan, Gail Noble, Jenny Noone and Fiona Reynolds.
Please join them at the exhibition opening on Sunday, 3 November at 2.00pm to experience their transformative works first-hand and meet the artists behind them.
The Briagolong Art Gallery, on the corner of Avon and Forbes Streets Briagolong, is open Saturdays and Sundays, 11.00am – 4.00pm.
TRUESELF runs from 2 November to 8 December.

Lesley Duxbury

Images:

1. Judy Dorber, In Golden Light, River Walk#3, monoprint
2. Jenny Noone, Monster Feet, linocut
3. Alison Elliott, Contemplation, collagraph
4. Lesley Duxbury, Yesterday/Today, Box Brownie photograph

From: Gippsland Times & Maffra Spectator